DETAILED ACTION

1. This application is in condition for allowance except for the following formal matters:
2. Figures 1 and 2 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
3. Claims 1 through 8 are objected to because of the following informalities: The claims recite multiple instances of the same type of element. These elements should be labeled first, second, etc. throughout the claims to avoid confusion. For instance, in claim 1 there is and A/D converter associated with the main MCU and an A/D converter associated with the sub MCU. It would be helpful to call one a "first A/D converter" and the other a "second A/D converter" and use these term throughout the claims. This also applies the different return values.
4. In claim 5, the limitation "a D/A converter" is recited. It is assumed that this is referring back to the already disclosed "D/A converter" of claim 1 so it is suggested that the limitation be changed to "the D/A converter" or "said D/A converter."
5. Appropriate correction is required.

Prosecution on the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 25 USPQ 74, 453 O.G. 213, (Comm'r Pat. 1935).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this action is set to expire TWO MONTHS from the mailing date of this letter.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record fails to disclose a fault diagnosis by outputting a test signal from a first CPU through a D/A converter which is connected to both a first A/D converter on the first CPU and also connected to a second A/D converter on a second CPU, the second CPU supplying the signal received from the second A/D converter to the first CPU. The first CPU comparing the signal supplied by the second CPU and a signal received from the first A/D converter to the original test signal to determine faults. The prior art of record describe many fault detection configurations but none read on the invention as claimed. Loise, 5630046, discloses one type of fault detection configuration. The invention includes three CPU for carrying out the same calculations and then votes based on each CPU's result. The invention does disclose providing a value to the A/D converters associated with two of the processors as an error checking mechanism, but the value provided is just a feedback value of a commanded value. The same value is not supplied to the CPUs via the A/D converters so that a comparison can be made between the two values received in the CPUs from the associated A/D converter, instead the feedback is used so that each CPU can check its actual output versus what was commanded. Greure et al., 5794167, is another example of an error checking mechanism with a value from the processors fed back into the input of the A/D converter. However, this value is only fed to a single A/D converter (A/N2) and is used to verify the output of the processors. In this case, the two processor carry out the same functions and a third voter processor compares the results to see if there is an error in either control channel.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
